

Obesity News
28th January 2010

Obesity: corporate sector backtracks on fat facts

London and New York joins forces to fight childhood obesity

Regardless of gender, race, degree of obesity raises risk of stroke

Tackling obesity can health narrow health inequalities in the South East

Childhood obesity alone may increase risk of later cardiovascular disease

Obesity ups cancer risk, and here's how

UK must follow Michelle Obama's lead with a better recipe to reduce obesity

Overweight' adults age 70 or older are less likely to die over a 10 year period than those of 'normal' weight

Fighting childhood obesity at home

New scheme 'better for obesity'

The deadly threat of obesity in Fife

Obesity problem alarming in Samoa

Most parents don't realise their 4 or 5 year olds are overweight or obese

OTHER

Parents cut kids' calories when menus are labeled

More than \$180,000 in grants awarded to schools and community groups to help fight childhood obesity

New tools and systems may help patients, primary care clinicians manage obesity

South Korea to restrict junk food ads on TV

Report published on tackling cardiovascular disease and health inequalities

Archive news is available on

<http://www.iaso.org/HOPEObesityintheNewsArchive.htm>

The press links are provided for information only, their inclusion is not indicative of IASO/HOPE endorsement.

If you have any comments or articles for inclusion please email:
HOPEnet@iaso.org

